What is the admission process?

For most people who wish to study abroad, the admissions process can be one of the most challenging procedures that they face. It normally involves filling out basic information along with your academic transcripts, writing a statement of purpose (SOP) and reporting your GRE® Test and/or TOEFL® IBT scores. Additionally letters of recommendation from your teachers (if you are a student) or supervisors (if you are a working professional) are required. The admissions committee mainly bases its decision on your GRE® Test and TOEFL® IBT score and academic performance with the other paraphernalia carrying some significance.
